Dear Sir/Mme.; to whom it may concern,

We are writing to tell you that we enjoy our trusted postal system, just as it is. Actually, it was even better before the 1,500 rural post office closures that came into effect the last time the Conservatives were in power. Do you remember the public outcry over that?

In our opinion, a speedy review without public hearings, in order to try to put Canada Post up for bids to the private sector, is hardly a democratic way to determine the future of our postal system.

Sincerely,

R. Dupuy
